

Sleeping Beauty

Hayley Warren

Long long ago, there lived a sleeping princess,
Who slept for a hundred years.
On her sixteenth birthday,
She pricked her finger on a spindle,
And the fairy's curse came true,
The worst the kingdom feared.

Many princes came, to try and wake the princess,
The giant thorns defeated them.
Just one prince could break the spell,
True love's kiss would break the spell.
The handsome prince kissed the princess true and fair,
And the princess woke again.
And the princess woke again.
